

27 October 2017

Much has happened in the College during the course of another busy and productive year. Looking back, we see plenty of evidence of the remarkable successes of our students in the arts and sciences where they have demonstrated the skills they have earned here at St John's. Examples include the spectacular College musical which showcased the very high standard of performing arts achievement, the Conrad Spirt of Innovation Challenge where our students yet again excelled at an international level, and the excellent achievements of our students at the recent International Schools Software Competition in Sri Lanka. These are all fine examples of the diversity of learning at the College and the fact that St John's students are equipped to compete and succeed on a world stage.

Coupled with this is the further development of the infrastructure within the College such as the mid-year completion of the Performing Arts Centre, the establishment of a remodelled STEM Centre on the Primary Campus and commitments to do the same on the Secondary campus before the commencement of the 2018 School year. These facilities and the equipment they house are an investment in developing new strategies for learning in a world where the capacity to adapt is all important. Not surprisingly our staff are as excited by these initiatives as our students, and this creates a wonderful platform for the year ahead.

Naturally such initiatives come at a cost, and, as with every other year the costs of operation of the College have increased and a modest increase in fees is needed to enable the maintenance of the very high standards of service that the College delivers.

Information follows that outlines the College's terms regarding fees, fee collection policies and procedures and details of levies and ancillary charges for 2018. These details are also available on the College website at www.stjohnsanglicancollege.com.au.

Once again this year, I assure you that our highest priority as a Board is to maintain the highest possible standards in the educational offerings we provide at the most competitive fee cost possible.

On behalf of the Board I wish you all a safe and Holy Christmas, and we look forward to welcoming you back in 2018.

Yours faithfully

Barry Kelly
Chairman
